ITEP is currently seeking qualified, interested applicants to fill a number of positions. Details on each position are available on the environmental professionals institute for tribal professionals (ITEP) website: http://www.nau.edu/itep/main/Training/training_air/.

These online courses contain assignments, quizzes, videos, examples, downloadable spreadsheets, and the TAMS Center team’s feedback or suggestions for us. We would love to hear from you!

We would also love to hear stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

For more information on the TAMS Center, please contact Mansel Nelson, Angelique Luedeker, or Christopher Lee. Contact information is provided below.

ITEP is hiring! The TAMS Center will be recruiting for summer interns starting this summer. More information about these opportunities will be available soon! The TAMS Center will also be hiring for an event coordinator, senior.

ITEP is Hiring! Summer 2019 will begin recruiting for internship opportunities, with an 80-hour project.

We have an upcoming national meeting in Spokane this October 2018. This will provide an opportunity for organizations to meet and discuss current policies, regulations, and plans. More information will be available soon.

The TAMS SC is proud to announce the following self-personal achievements:

- Shaina White, Intertribal Council of Arizona, was in the first year of a term to the TAMS SC to replace Shaina White, Intertribal Council of Arizona, who was in the first year of a term.
- The four members that will be completing their terms and the four new members beginning their terms. The Steering Committee seat has also changed as one of the existing members has stepped down and another.
- The TAMS SC will be selecting a new TAMS SC Chair and Vice Chair.

The effort initiated by the TAMS SC to get an idea of the air monitoring equipment used by tribes nationwide and identifies the input from tribes nationwide to a questionnaire regarding the types of technical services offered.

Feedback from the TAMS SC suggests that tribal offices might not be able to support equipment needs such as the portable air quality monitors.

I really enjoyed being able to talk about air quality with us stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

We would also love to hear stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

In 1998, Dennis Wall, our Native Voices (NV) editor, retired after more than 20 years of service. Now Dennis Wall is back to educate and mentor native students.

Dennis guided and nurtured Native Voices for over 20 years but is now enjoying retirement. Many of you know that Dennis Wall, our Native Voices (NV) editor, retired at the end of 1998 after more than 20 years of service. Now Dennis Wall is back to educate and mentor native students.

ITEP is currently seeking qualified, interested applicants to fill a number of positions. Details on each position are available on the environmental professionals institute for tribal professionals (ITEP) website: http://www.nau.edu/itep/main/Training/training_air/.

These online courses contain assignments, quizzes, videos, examples, downloadable spreadsheets, and the TAMS Center team’s feedback or suggestions for us. We would love to hear from you!

We would also love to hear stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

For more information on the TAMS Center, please contact Mansel Nelson, Angelique Luedeker, or Christopher Lee. Contact information is provided below.

ITEP is hiring! The TAMS Center will be recruiting for summer interns starting this summer. More information about these opportunities will be available soon! The TAMS Center will also be hiring for an event coordinator, senior.

ITEP is Hiring! Summer 2019 will begin recruiting for internship opportunities, with an 80-hour project.

We have an upcoming national meeting in Spokane this October 2018. This will provide an opportunity for organizations to meet and discuss current policies, regulations, and plans. More information will be available soon.

The TAMS SC is proud to announce the following self-personal achievements:

- Shaina White, Intertribal Council of Arizona, was in the first year of a term to the TAMS SC to replace Shaina White, Intertribal Council of Arizona, who was in the first year of a term.
- The four members that will be completing their terms and the four new members beginning their terms. The Steering Committee seat has also changed as one of the existing members has stepped down and another.
- The TAMS SC will be selecting a new TAMS SC Chair and Vice Chair.

The effort initiated by the TAMS SC to get an idea of the air monitoring equipment used by tribes nationwide and identifies the input from tribes nationwide to a questionnaire regarding the types of technical services offered.

Feedback from the TAMS SC suggests that tribal offices might not be able to support equipment needs such as the portable air quality monitors.

I really enjoyed being able to talk about air quality with us stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

We would also love to hear stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

In 1998, Dennis Wall, our Native Voices (NV) editor, retired after more than 20 years of service. Now Dennis Wall is back to educate and mentor native students.

Dennis guided and nurtured Native Voices for over 20 years but is now enjoying retirement. Many of you know that Dennis Wall, our Native Voices (NV) editor, retired at the end of 1998 after more than 20 years of service. Now Dennis Wall is back to educate and mentor native students.

ITEP is currently seeking qualified, interested applicants to fill a number of positions. Details on each position are available on the environmental professionals institute for tribal professionals (ITEP) website: http://www.nau.edu/itep/main/Training/training_air/.

These online courses contain assignments, quizzes, videos, examples, downloadable spreadsheets, and the TAMS Center team’s feedback or suggestions for us. We would love to hear from you!

We would also love to hear stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

For more information on the TAMS Center, please contact Mansel Nelson, Angelique Luedeker, or Christopher Lee. Contact information is provided below.

ITEP is hiring! The TAMS Center will be recruiting for summer interns starting this summer. More information about these opportunities will be available soon! The TAMS Center will also be hiring for an event coordinator, senior.

ITEP is Hiring! Summer 2019 will begin recruiting for internship opportunities, with an 80-hour project.

We have an upcoming national meeting in Spokane this October 2018. This will provide an opportunity for organizations to meet and discuss current policies, regulations, and plans. More information will be available soon.

The TAMS SC is proud to announce the following self-personal achievements:

- Shaina White, Intertribal Council of Arizona, was in the first year of a term to the TAMS SC to replace Shaina White, Intertribal Council of Arizona, who was in the first year of a term.
- The four members that will be completing their terms and the four new members beginning their terms. The Steering Committee seat has also changed as one of the existing members has stepped down and another.
- The TAMS SC will be selecting a new TAMS SC Chair and Vice Chair.

The effort initiated by the TAMS SC to get an idea of the air monitoring equipment used by tribes nationwide and identifies the input from tribes nationwide to a questionnaire regarding the types of technical services offered.

Feedback from the TAMS SC suggests that tribal offices might not be able to support equipment needs such as the portable air quality monitors.

I really enjoyed being able to talk about air quality with us stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

We would also love to hear stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

In 1998, Dennis Wall, our Native Voices (NV) editor, retired after more than 20 years of service. Now Dennis Wall is back to educate and mentor native students.

Dennis guided and nurtured Native Voices for over 20 years but is now enjoying retirement. Many of you know that Dennis Wall, our Native Voices (NV) editor, retired at the end of 1998 after more than 20 years of service. Now Dennis Wall is back to educate and mentor native students.

ITEP is currently seeking qualified, interested applicants to fill a number of positions. Details on each position are available on the environmental professionals institute for tribal professionals (ITEP) website: http://www.nau.edu/itep/main/Training/training_air/.

These online courses contain assignments, quizzes, videos, examples, downloadable spreadsheets, and the TAMS Center team’s feedback or suggestions for us. We would love to hear from you!

We would also love to hear stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

For more information on the TAMS Center, please contact Mansel Nelson, Angelique Luedeker, or Christopher Lee. Contact information is provided below.

ITEP is hiring! The TAMS Center will be recruiting for summer interns starting this summer. More information about these opportunities will be available soon! The TAMS Center will also be hiring for an event coordinator, senior.

ITEP is Hiring! Summer 2019 will begin recruiting for internship opportunities, with an 80-hour project.

We have an upcoming national meeting in Spokane this October 2018. This will provide an opportunity for organizations to meet and discuss current policies, regulations, and plans. More information will be available soon.

The TAMS SC is proud to announce the following self-personal achievements:

- Shaina White, Intertribal Council of Arizona, was in the first year of a term to the TAMS SC to replace Shaina White, Intertribal Council of Arizona, who was in the first year of a term.
- The four members that will be completing their terms and the four new members beginning their terms. The Steering Committee seat has also changed as one of the existing members has stepped down and another.
- The TAMS SC will be selecting a new TAMS SC Chair and Vice Chair.

The effort initiated by the TAMS SC to get an idea of the air monitoring equipment used by tribes nationwide and identifies the input from tribes nationwide to a questionnaire regarding the types of technical services offered.

Feedback from the TAMS SC suggests that tribal offices might not be able to support equipment needs such as the portable air quality monitors.

I really enjoyed being able to talk about air quality with us stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

We would also love to hear stories about your air quality program success or challenges! Let us know how you are contributing to planning various sessions and sharing your stories with us.

In 1998, Dennis Wall, our Native Voices (NV) editor, retired after more than 20 years of service. Now Dennis Wall is back to educate and mentor native students.

Dennis guided and nurtured Native Voices for over 20 years but is now enjoying retirement. Many of you know that Dennis Wall, our Native Voices (NV) editor, retired at the end of 1998 after more than 20 years of service. Now Dennis Wall is back to educate and mentor native students.